A helping hand for those displaced by budget cuts

Regional Worker Adjustment Committee (RWAC) members are charged with passing on information to any dislocated worker about unemployment benefits, health care plans, job and training opportunities and other services that are available in specific counties.

Six regional RWACs are established by the state and union contract. If you find you are displaced as the result of recent budget cuts, contact your RWAC immediately! For more information or for assistance, contact a union liaison on one of the committees in your area shown below or browse

www.ocsea.org/RWAC

Members facing potential displacement as the result of recent budget cuts took advantage of the June Central Ohio RWAC resource fair to get assistance and connect with vital job resources.
